

As an employee of the television industry, I support keeping the current limits on media ownership intact. Media consolidation has already kept political and artistic voices from being heard, bringing about an American mono-culture of mediocrity. This must not be allowed to spread.